

Alphabet Pieces Game!

Since we have already learned C and F on the keyboard, these will become our reference points as we learn the rest of our keyboard!

The first time you play, cut at the dotted line to the left. Place a C on each of the C keys on your piano as you cut them individually. Next, cut out and put on all the D's. Then the E's, and so on. Have your child refer to the diagram below as s/he does this. Leave this half of the page in the book for reference.

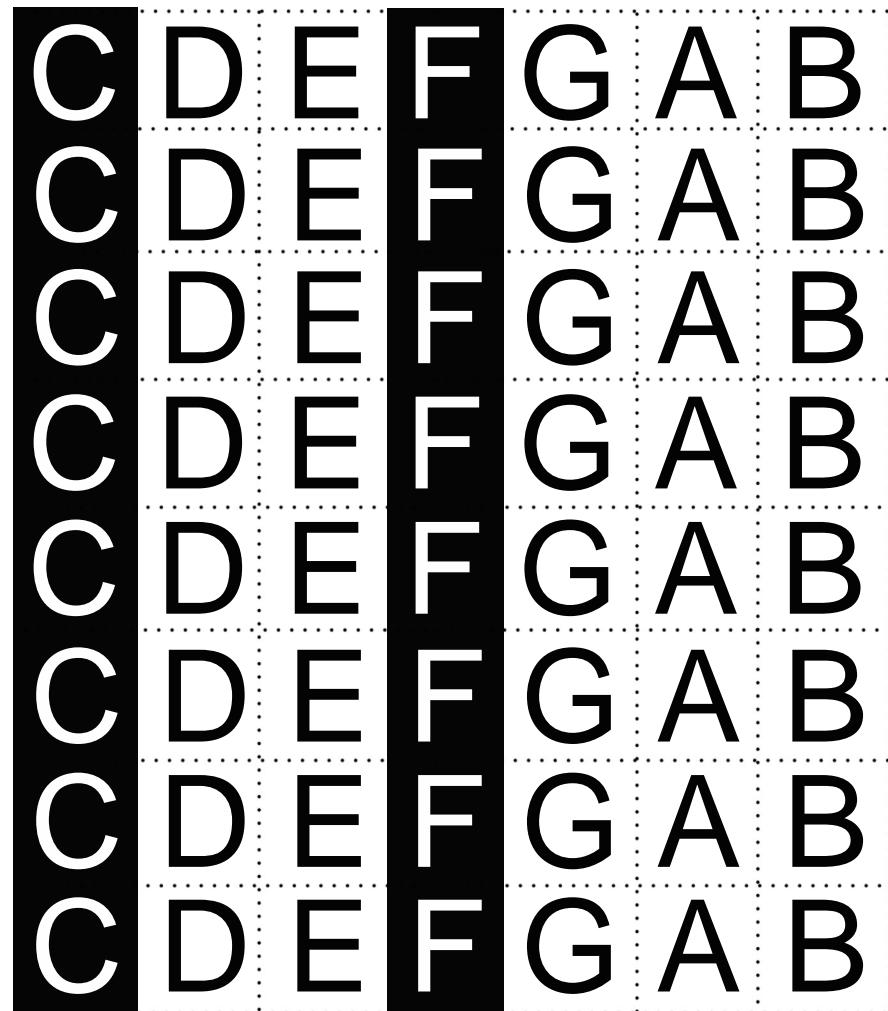

Every time thereafter, randomly pick a letter out of the baggie and place it on the key where it belongs. Play the game every day!

Keep this page open on the piano as a reference for your child to look at. As your child places the letters on, avoid the temptation to tell him where to place the letters. Have him refer to these diagrams to form his own visual conclusions. ("Look at this picture, where does it go?")

&

After the letters have all been cut, keep them in a plastic baggie stapled to the back cover of this book. Play this game every day for 2-3 weeks!
